PREFACE.

The facts assembled in this small volume were gathered in part from publications which are not named because they are accessible to any searcher. Whenever these books seemed of doubtful accuracy or did not exist, the original town records were searched for vital statistics, land entries, settlements of estates and court proceedings. In several instances the records had been burned.

The alphabetical arrangement of families used with the two charts renders an index superfluous to those for whom the book is printed.

Few abbreviations occur:

abt. is about.
b., bp., m., d., are birth, baptism, marriage and death.
dau. is daughter.
per. is perhaps.
prob. is probably.
unm. is unmarried.

It was at first intended to include a biographical sketch of each male head of a family of the descendants of Williams Howe Whittemore and Ebenezer Clark, but for several reasons it was concluded to omit all.

I suggest that every copy be given to the nearest public library rather than destroyed.

Perhaps widow of Richard Bond, and dau. of Hugh Thorne.

William received by his father's will lands in Over Stowey, Bishops Lydiard and elsewhere. No further trace of him is found there and he probably removed to Pitminster, England, as a William Blake bought lands there in 1586,

He arrived with his wife, four sons and one daughter, was a founder, 1636, of Springfield, and settled in Dorchester, 1637. He was made freeman Mch. 14, 1638-9, was Selectman 1645, 1647 and 1651, and was Town Clerk and Recorder.

William Blake's will, Sept. 3, 1661, probated Boston, Jan. 28, 1663, mentions wife and five children and says: "I give and bequeath unto the town of Dorchester, 20 sh. to be bestowed for the repairing of the burying-place, so ye swine and other Vermine may not Anoy ye Graves of ye saints." Note—It is probable that two generations preceded Hannah Emerson in this country, although destruction of records prohibits proofs. In the original vital statistic record in Newbury in which her marriage appears, she is plainly called Hannah. Coffin's History of Newbury copied it Hannah about 1829, and in 1845 called it Mary (perhaps thinking of the elder Wolcott's wife), and Savage followed and called her Mary, adding "Coffin tells no more."

He probably came from Southampton, Eng., in the "Bevis" in 1638 to Salem, Mass. He had land rights or bought land in Rehoboth in 1645 of the value of £150, but remained in Salem where he was a bricklayer until about 1668, when Rehoboth was settled. He had much personal property and land in Rehoboth, Attleboro, Seekonk and on the Pawtucket river.

He paid a tax of £4½ for the expense of King Phillip's War in 1676. He was the first and only bricklayer in New England for many years. In 1676 Rehoboth was burned by the Indlans, and Robert Fuller lost his wife and two sons and his home, and then returned to Salem.

Note—All of Ebenezer Howe's children, except Ebenezer, disappear from the Mass. records about 1753, and in Mansfield, Ashford and Willington, Ct., appear Samuel, Sarah, Charles, Benjamin and Nehemiah. That Samuel, Benjamin and Sarah were brothers and sister is proven by a diary of Doctor Samuel's daughter, Lucinda (Howe) Storrs, 1776-1780 and 1812 to her death at 81 in 1839, which I found after a search in N. Y., Ct., W. Va. and Vt., and induced the owner, Miss Harriet Waterman Storrs, now Mrs. Joseph Busby of Brooklyn, N. Y., to deposit in the Connecticut Historical Society Library. Rev. Eleazer Williams, 1688-1742, who in 1710 was ordained the first minister in Mansfield, was father of Mary, wife of Rev. Richard Salter, who was an aunt of Lucinda (Howe) Storrs and of her brother Williams Howe, who d. 1776. This doubtless accounts for the names of Rev. Williams Howe Whittemore and of his son.

d. Medfield, Mass., Nov. 1, 1685.

MARGARET b. England, abt. 1605,
d. Medfield, May 9, 1662.

He was a carpenter.

He came with his wife and two sons from Wrentham in the "Mary Anne" in 1637 to Dedham. He was received into the church in Dedham Jan. 12, 1643. He became a freeman May 10, 1643. In Nov., 1644, he attended a meeting to provide means of education for the young. He had a grant of land in Dedham, Feb. 16, 1643. His estate was partly in Medfield which was set off from Dedham in 1651. He very early owned land in what is now Norfolk or Wrentham, as in 1655 he had leave to make a bridge over Stop River "from his meadow in Dedham bounds," which bore his name for years. He often held town offices. In 1652 he was on a committee to lay out highways; in 1658 he was to make the seats about the table in the meeting-house; in 1661 to help seat the people; in 1675 to keep a school for 10 shillings a week, or 7 shillings if paid in money. He was selectman eight years.

His will of June 13, 1683, allowed Boston, Oct. 21, 1686,—sons, Thomas and John Thurston, executors,—mentions eldest son, Thomas Thurston, John Thurston, Joseph Thurston, "daughter-in-law, widow and relict of son Benjamin." Note—As for the mother of Dea. Nathaniel Wales' children: Savage says it was Isabel who died in Boston fourteen days after Nathaniel. Pope says Nathaniel was received into the church in Boston Mch. 3, 1651, with his wife, Susan, and that she was a daughter of John Greenaway of Dorchester who came in 1629-30, because he deeded lands in 1651-2 "to his daughter, Susanna Wales, and children if she have any." The N. Eng. Hist. and Gen. Reg., 11-37, and 32-321, and Pope's Pioneers, page 474, increase the difficulty.

ESTHER SMITH b. Nov. 24, 1702.
d. Windham, Oct. 10, 1737.

(He m. 2nd, Oct. 13, 1741, Deborah Wood, b. June 15, 1714, d. Mch. 13, 1779.)

Ebenezer Wales was noted for his piety, intellect and sense. His "Counsels and Directions to his Children" were printed in Boston as a tract of 24 pages in 1813. In 1875 they were reprinted by Rev. Williams Howe Whittemore with some items of Wales genealogy.

He lived in Windham, where he was judge of the County Court, and deacon for many years, and went to Union about 1750.

His will (date not legible) and codicil of Sept, 21, 1773, both of Union, appears in Stafford Springs without date of probate.

It names wife Deborah: sons Elijah, Shubel, Nathaniel, Eleazer, Seth, Timothy, Solomon, Oliver: "gr. dau. Sarah Ayers, dau. to my dau. Elizabeth Ayers deceased": daus. Susannah (Abel ?), Ester, Irene, Lydia and Sarah.

It mentions "the estate of my first wife."

The undated inventory was £399.

d. Medfield, Mass., Jan. 11, 1684.
m.
REBECCA b. d. Medfield, Jan. 1, 1682.

He was educated at Clare Hall, Cambride. He was a dissenting preacher, and often preached in America, though he was never settled. Proprietor, Sept. 14, 1637. He came from Watertown to Dedham at the time of its settlement, 1636, and helped to form the church there.

He was a freeman, 1639, in 1642 local magistrate and "clerk of the writs," and in 1645 was authorized to "solemnize marriages." He was the "founder of Medfield, Mass.", having the first lot granted there. It was of 12 acres. His house was built in 1651 or 1652. He was a member of the first board of selectmen in 1651 and served for four years after. In 1653 he was chosen to take up a collection for Harvard College. In 1655 he became the first school-master. He was deputy to the General Court for several years and held almost every office of importance in the town.

His will of May 3, 1681; inventory Jan. 31, 1683; probated May 1, 1684, names eldest son Gershom; sons Benjamin, Eleazer and Samuel; sons-in-law Increase Ward and Joseph Warren; grandchild Rebecca Craft; refers to deceased wife.

(He m. 2nd, Mary Chenery, d. 1732, dau. of Isaac.)

He killed four wolves in 1676. He removed to Mendon soon after marrying, was surveyor there, and distinguished as a hunter of wild beasts. He returned to Medfield about 1701 and bought a house where the town hall now stands. He later acquired the original Wheelock estate on the west corner of North street. He was selectman 1720, and was prominent in town affairs.

His will of Jan. 29, 1730-31, was allowed Boston, Apr. 9, 1731. Son, Ephraim, executor. It mentions wife Mary; son Ralph Wheelock of Wendham; daughter Rebecca Adams; granddaughter, Esther Wales; granddaughter Elizabeth Holbrook, "in full of her share in my estate in her mother's right:" Grandchildren, Mary Lawrence, Daniel Lawrence, Esther Lawrence, "in full of their share in right of their mother my daughter Mary in my estate;" Granddaughter Elizabeth, daughter of my son Ralph Wheelock; son Ephraim Wheelock; son Ephraim Wheelock's son Eleazar. Lineage of the English Family of Whitmore from Burke's Landed Gentry.

JOHN, LORD OF WHYTEMERE,	in the reign of Henry III, Edward I, was father of
PHILIP DE WHYTEMERE,	who d. 1300, and was succeeded by his son,
JOHN DE WHYTEMERE,	living in 1361, whose son,
RICHARD DE WHYTEMERE,	of Claverly and Whytemere, m. Margery, dau. and heir of William Atterall, of Claverly, and dying about 1386, left a son and heir,
RICHARD DE WHYTEMERE,	father of another
RICHARD DE WHYTEMERE,	who m. a lady named Joan, whose family is unknown, and was succeeded at his decease, in 1442, by his son,
THOMAS WHYTEMERE,	of Claverly, who d. in 1483, his son,
RICHARD WHYTEMERE,	left at his demise in 1504, by his wife Agnes, who died in 1522, a son and successor,
RICHARD WHITMORE	of Claverly, b. in 1495, who m. Frances Barker, and had two sons,
WILLIAM,	his heir ;
THOMAS,	ancestor of the Whitmores of Ludstone, in Claverly ;
RICHARD WHITMORE	d. in 1549, and was succeeded by his son,
WILLIAM WHITMORE	Esq., of London, merchant, who m. Anne, dau. of Alderman William Bond, of that city, and by her (who d. Oct. 9, 1615), had issue William (Sir) his heir ; Thomas d. without issue ; George (Sir) Knight of Balmes, in Hackney parish, Middlesex. He d. Dec. 12, 1654.

From the above, the several families of Whitmore, in England, trace their ancestry.

Name is spelled : Whytmore, Whitmar, Whitmer, Whitmore, Whitamore, Whittamore, Whitemere, Whytmor, Watmore, Weadmore, Whittemore, Whitimore, Witamore, Whittimore, Wetmore, and in about twenty-five more ways.

THE PARSONAGE, SOUTHBURY, CT.

WHITTEMORE.

"Earlier than the year 1300 we find the first recorded name i. e. John, Lord of Whytemere, having his domicile at Whytemere on the northeast side of the parish of Bobbington in the manor Claverly in Shropshire County, England. At the present time the same locality bears the name of Whittemore. It is recorded by two historians that Whittemore Hall was the place of the origin of the Whittemore family. The Anglo Saxon of the word Whytemere is 'white meadow' or 'lake,' and the first John, Lord of Whytemere, derived the name of the family from the place where they originally resided."

Rev. Williams Howe Whittemore died at the residence of his second son, Edward P. Whittemore, in Rye, N. Y., July 25th, after an illness of a few hours, of paralysis of the heart.

Losing his mother at two years of age, he was cared for by his Aunt Roxanna at his grandfather Wales' until he was six, when he and his sister, Julia Ann, went to Belchertown, Mass., to live with Timothy Pearl, who had no children. He was there educated at the district school. When about 18 years old, during a remarkable revival of religion, he became converted. He was advised to study for the ministry. Mr. and Mrs. Pearl and others assisted him to prepare for college under his pastor and the Rev. Philo Judson (Y. C. 1809) of Ashford, Ct. He then taught the district school in Belchertown and attended the High School. He entered the class of 1825 in Yale College in the Sophomore year, and during the course taught in Washington and New Haven. After graduation he entered the Theological Seminary until the spring, when he taught classics in the High School in Newark, N. J., for a year, and then returned to the seminary. In 1828 he was licensed to preach and did so often during his last year at the seminary. May 1, 1829, he took temporary charge of the Presbyterian Church in Rye, N. Y., where he stayed three years where he married Maria the second daughter of Ebenezer and Ann (Marselis) Clark, by whom he had three sons and one daughter, all of whom, with eight grandsons and five granddaughters, were living at the time of his death. In the spring of 1832 he left Rye, and in the autumn took a church in Abington, Ct. In Aug., 1833, he was installed in Charlton, Mass., remaining until the spring of 1836. In the autumn he became pastor of the church in Southbury, Ct., where he remained until the autumn of 1850. Then until the autumn of 1851 he preached in Prospect, Ct. In Sept., 1851, he moved to New Haven, Ct., where he occupied himself with teaching two or three years, preaching constantly in various places, and from the spring of 1864 until Sept., 1865, acting as agent of the National Freedmen's Relief Association. In May, 1868, he went to Brooklyn, N. Y., to live with his daughter. From 1870 he was a member of the Church of the Pilgrims. Although more than 85 years old when he died he preserved to the last much physical and mental vigor. The last twenty years of his life were largely devoted to helping the poor and to literary pursuits, his interest in everything relating to the advancement of his fellow men remaining keen to the end.

ABIGAIL HORTON b. Norwich, Oct. 7, 1736.

(He m. 1st, Sept. 17, 1741, Elizabeth Miles, dau. of Thomas.)
He secured a divorce from his wife Abigail Dec. 4, 1770.

He was a sea captain and engaged largely and successfully in the shipping business. He built at the foot of the town hill the largest house in the township, forty feet square and three stories high.

His will of Aug. 16, 1774, probated New Haven, says "in 63d year of my age," divides estate into twenty-three parts, gives sons Daniel and Archibald (children of 1st wife) each ten parts, and Mary, Abigail and Ebenezer each one part. It mentions no wife, appoints sons Daniel and Archibald, executors, and names daughters Mary and Abigail, and son Ebenezer. Inventory (12-33) of Mch. 9, 1775, was £700. Court appointed July 5, 1775 (12-56), Abraham Stanley guardian for Abigail, and Archibald Clark for Ebenezer, Apr. 1, 1775 (12-42).

Court Record 16-174, July 25, 1788, Distribution, "of land to Archibald Clark 1st son, to Daniel Clark 2nd son, to Ebenezer Clark 3d son of Daniel Clark of Wallingford, and to daughters Mary wife of Ichabod Ives and to Abigail Buckman."

1 IV. EBENEZER CLARK b. Wallingford, Jan. 15, 1769.
d. Rye, N. Y., Sept. 15, 1847.
m. New York City, July 10, 1794.
HANNAH MARCELIS b. New York City, Mch. 5, 1769.
d. Rye, Aug. 25, 1856.

He removed in early manhood to New York, where the New York City directories of 1798 and 1802 call him "Coachmaker 202 Broadway"; of 1810 "Upper part of Broadway"; 1816, 1818, 1820 "Broadway North of Bleecker." He removed to Rye, May 10, 1821, where he built a house in 1836 opposite the Presbyterian Church.

His nuncupative will of 1847 was probated New York City.

"Died, at Rye, N. Y., Ebenezer Clark, aged 78 years, 8 months. Mr. Clark was made a subject of saving grace in this city about the year 1815, chiefly, as is supposed, under the faithful ministrations of Dr. McMurray. He united with the Franklin Street Dutch church, of which he was repeatedly solicited to become a ruling elder. In the year 1815 he took up his abode in Rye. Finding the cause of religion there in a very depressed condition, he got possession of an old, unfinished building, which had been erected for a church, and determined to "raise the tabernacle of David that was fallen." He procured an organization by the Presbytery of New York, although but ten communicants could be found in the neighborhood.

"The next year an opening was presented for a church in a village within the same township; he promptly undertook a building there and completed it. Some years after he removed the old edifice above referred to, and erected on its site a tasteful church, which is and will long remain, we trust, the ornament of the village, as well as the centre of saving influences.

"From the infancy of these two congregations until his death he watched over them with the tenderness and anxiety of a parent. In all their struggles, his strong hand supported and his sagacious counsels guided them. The large drafts made year by year upon his own moderate resources, were met with a rare liberality. Demands which would have startled many of our wealthy Christians, he cheerfully and promptly satisfied. He was actuated by a deep and all-controlling principle. Religion was the prominent business of his life. His sentiments on this and on other subjects he was never afraid or ashamed publicly to own. None of the inducements which were presented could persuade him to swerve from those high doctrinal principles, and that simple yet sublime form of worship which are the glory of our churches. His own household of faith, which he served as ruling elder, he supported with an earnest and an unwavering purpose. He has left behind him these two, now flourishing churches, as monuments of his character, which shall perpetuate his name and his principles far more efficiently and usefully than columns of granite towering to the heavens, or the shouts of a nation applauding a victorious general. His death as well as his life illustrated his principles. Humble and self-diffident, yet confident, the most lowly views of his own unworthiness were conjoined with the most exalted views of Christ's righteousness. He disclaimed all personal merit, and ascribed his salvation entirely to grace; yet this gave him a bright hope, undoubting assurance, and triumphant exit from this world."—N. Y. Observer.

He probably removed to Norwich about 1730, as Jan. 9, 1730, he caused his first two children's births to be recorded there.

He removed before 1751 to Haddam where, Oct. 18, 1756, he deeded "to my daughter Abigail Haughton my present dwelling house."

Note—The name Haughton is often changed in records to Horton. The families of Haughton, Houghton, Horton and Orton are in this country all distinct.

m. June 15, 1635, Isabeu Van der Straten,

He was Resident and Commissary of the King of Denmark at Amsterdam. He became Seigneur of Huretallegaard, Tjidball, Collinborg and Moen. He was Knighted and made a member of the order of the Elephant, and raised to the Danish nobility, Sept. 7, 1665, by Frederic III, King of Denmark.

(For copy of patent of nobility and coat of arms, see Whitehead's "Passaic Valley," p. 40.)

He was elected to brotherhood in Amsterdam, Aug. 31, 1648; Alderman in 1649, '50, '52, '56 and '57; delegated as Council, 1652; Surrogated in 1653-4; appointed Chief of Dike-Reeve of Rhynland in 1656; Burgomaster of Amsterdam in 1659, '60, '64, '66, '67, '69, '70, '73 and '77; Curator of the University of Leyden in 1662, and Delegate in the Council of State in 1674, '75 and '76.

ELIZABETH ? d. Aug. 1, 1680.

He represented Russia at the Court of Denmark, and was elevated to the Danish nobility Sept. 17, 1643, and granted the Coat Armor described by J. B. Riestap in his "Coat-Armor of the Netherland Nobility."

He was the progenitor of the American branch of the Van Marselis family. He sailed in the ship "Beaver" from Beest, Holland, May 9, 1661, for the Netherlands, arriving at New Amsterdam July 29, 1661. He paid for the passage of himself and wife 72, of his four children, aged 13, 6, 4, and 2 years, 90, and of his male and female servant 70 florins, in all 232 florins or $92.80.

He became a planter in Bergen, now in New Jersey. He was appointed a Schepen (magistrate) of Bergen Aug. 18, 1673. As a mark of honor he was buried under the Reformed Church of Bergen.

Gabriel Marselis and his son's father-in-law, Michael Pauw, Patroon of Pavonia, were members of the Amsterdam Chamber of the Dutch W. I. Co. who were pushing the settlement of New Netherlands.

The influence of Gabriel, an Alderman of Amsterdam, 1648-9, 1650-2, 1656-7, no doubt had to do with the selection of his brother Pieter the emigrant from Beest, and perhaps caused the emigration of the Janse Marselis of Bommel in Guilderland, Holland, who settled in 1656 in Beverwyck, New York, as Bommel and Beest were only six miles apart.

As the children of this emigrant used Pieterse as the family name —Pieterse Marselis the 2nd, calling himself Merselis Pieterse— there were, probably, other children born to the first Pieter who continued to use Pieterse as a family name and cannot now be verified. The descendants of Merselis Pieterse have used Marselis as a family name, spelling it, however, in many ways.

VROUWTE IDES. d. Mch. or Apr., 1641.

(She. m. 2nd, 1639, Jacob Stoffelsen, b. 1601, d. 1677, who Aug. 17, 1657, m. Tryntie Jacobs, the widow of Jacob Walingen of Hoorn (Winfield land titles, p. 46), or as New York Dutch Ch. Marriages, p. 22, has it "wid. of Van Jacob Walingen." Tryntie survived Stoffelsen and m. Caspar Steinmets.)

The name Voorst is probably derived from a place in Gelderland, Holland, near the river Yssel, called Voorst. He came probably as early as Sept. 8, 1634, probably returned to Holland in 1635, was appointed by Michael Pauw Burgomaster of Amsterdam, and Lord of Achtienhoven, near Utrecht, to superintend his colony, and returned and settled in Pavonia before June 25, 1636. Michael Pauw bought Staten Island Aug. 10, 1630, and the land in New Jersey between Communipaw and Weehawken, Nov. 22, 1630, both from the Indians, and called it Pavonia, of which he was Patroon. June 25, 1636, Gov. Wouter Van Twiller, Dominie Everardus Bogardus and Captain DeVries called on Van Voorst and all drank freely. They entered their boat for Fort Amsterdam and Van Voorst fired a salute from a swivel mounted on a pile in front of the house—a spark lighted the thatched house and in a half hour the house was in ashes.

m. Oct. 18, 1652.
HILLETJE JANS of Oldenburgh in Holstein, d. July 18, 1705.

He is said to have been the first white male born and married in New Netherlands. In the war of 1643 he was captured by the Indians and a few days later ransomed. In the war of 1655 he took refuge in New Amsterdam. In Oct., 1659, while dressing meat near his house, the Indians came and he fled with the meat in his row-boat to New Amsterdam, where he was fined 20 guilders and costs "for bringing meat to the city without taking out excise license." This was probably the first American tariff. Apr. 5, 1664, Gov. Stuyvesant gave him a home lot at Ahasimus, now Jersey City. He was a farmer and accumulated money and land.
